Innovation, precision, fascination and tradition

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

Your company identifies with the characteristics of innovation, precision, fascination and tradition? Do you operate at a high level of quality with a constant striving for continuous process improvement?

Then the use of the Six Sigma methodology with its structured and targeted approach is extremely interesting for you and it is worthwhile for you to take a closer look at our invitation described below!

We give you the opportunity to deal intensively with Six Sigma and to set the course for the success of your company with this focus.

You are cordially invited to participate in our Six Sigma Champions Training (2 days) free of charge!

After the "Training for Managers" you will be well informed and able to make the right decisions on the use of Six Sigma..

In our training we convey:

- The origin of the method.
- The systematic approach of the 5-step method DMAIC.
- The variation of processes and how to identify the right decision options.
- The importance of Six Sigma in projects and how to select suitable projects.
- The prerequisites for the introduction and, if necessary, the roll-out of Six Sigma.
- The strategic, operational and economic benefits of Six Sigma.

Impressive hands-on experiments deepen the training content and promote direct exchange between the participants.

We cover the training costs; you only pay the hotel expenses for catering and overnight stay!

In addition, you have the opportunity to participate in the training as a team of two together with one of your employees from the top management level, in particular quality, production, purchasing or development managers.
